Holiday

■ The last tip changes the negative into a positive. If someone is bringing you down, gently remind them about the positive aspects of their day. In my opinion there is always a silver lining.

Choose to live a life in action, the key is not to be attached to the outcome, and remember everything will turn out perfectly. Create a space of new possibilities for yourself.

At the end of your day, check back in with yourself. Conduct a mini evaluation on productivity, staying on track, creating balance, not dwelling, and giving gratitude.
